

The U.S. hike in H-1B visa fees exposes India's dependence on foreign job markets. Analyse its implications & suggest measures for India to reduce this reliance. (150w)

US & India mutually have a good relation in many international organization platform.

Introduction:

Good – You mentioned US-India relations and the visa hike as a strain between both countries.

Improve – The intro is too generic; it doesn't clearly frame India's dependence on foreign job markets or link to IT/skill migration.

Body:

Good – You attempted to cover implications like inflation, impact on people, and strained bilateral relations.

Improve – These points are weakly connected to the actual economic/workforce context of H-1B visas. Key aspects like cost burden on Indian IT firms, workforce mobility, and remittance flow are missing or underdeveloped.

Conclusion/Measures:

Good – You suggested diversifying dependency and seeking partnerships with other countries and groupings.

Improve – Measures remain vague (e.g., "help of other country" or "help of global grouping"). You should give concrete domestic reforms like skilling, startups, R&D, and migration policy changes.

i) Inflation in economy: Due to increase in inflation will be increase in India.

ii) Impact on people: - It will impact local people of India who dependent for jobs in U.S.

iii) Bitter relation with U.S.A: - It will affect India's relation with U.S. as visa - fees create problem.

U.P.S.C.

SUGGESTION TO REDUCE RELIANCE

i) Divert dependency: It is in the hands of India to divert its dependency

ii) Help of other country: India can take help by other country

E.g. Russia

iii) Help of global grouping: India can take help of international global group

E.g. ASEAN countries

India & US are part of many organization & if India suggest view subsequently about H-1B visa then again relation of India & US will be maintained.
